While most people are focused on the recent facelift that made its debut in Frankfurt, Youtube use RacingEngineV8 had a thing for the old Bentley Continental GTC.

How do we know? Well, he has posted a clip of the ASI-tuned version strutting its stuff in Monaco. This is not only one very bold tuning job, but also one that comes from an unlikely place.

You see ASI stands for Accuracy Spirit Imagination, and the body kit was conceived in Japan of all places. The most stand-out feature is the ... [...]
