If the tuning industry keeps working at its current rate, soon we may have more aftermarket packages for the BMW 1M Coupe than the number of units produced by the German automaker. So, how is this bad? It isn't. Not at all. Thus, we give give a new modification kit for the entry-level M car, this time coming from German tuner TVW Car Design.

Dubbed Orange Competition, the package targets both the visual and the technical sides of the Bimmer and we'll start with the latter.

The twin-turbo 3... [...]
