Yes, we still think the Porsche Panamera is ugly, and not even a facelift is going to fix this, but that won't stop us from liking a version that goes beyond its limits and into supercar territory. Edo Competition has revealed a project that almost looks like a sleeper (were it not for those stickers) but packs an all-mighty punch: 700 horsepower from the 4.8-liter V8 engine under the bonnet, which is enough to rival the output of the Aventador.

This insane output comes via a new exhaust syst... [...]
