

Ford Focus by The ID Agency

23/10/2011 20:12 by admin

Of the seven Ford Focus models that are headed to the SEMA Auto Show, picking one as our favorite is like picking what kind of beer we like the best. There are plenty of great choices that makes singling one out next to impossible. But if we HAVE to choose one, we'd find it extremely difficult to bypass ID Agency's Ford Focus. According to the ID Agency, their work on the Ford Focus was inspired by European and Japanese tuning styles, highlighted by an olive paint finish, a Wraptivo-wrapped roof, a Ford Licensed Accessory Thule bike rack with a Custom Leader bike, a set of Recaro Sportster seats and an interior dressed up by Top Stitch. To go with the aesthetic modifications done on the sport hatch, the ID Agency also made some performance upgrades of its own, including the installation of a new Magnaflow cat-back exhaust and an enormous big brake package courtesy of no less than Brembo Brakes.[...]

Source: topspeed