The Mercedes SLS AMG has become one of the tuning world's favourite supercars and the vehicle has just received a new modification package from Inden Design.

The naturally-aspirated 6.2-liter V8 engine, which delivers 571 hp and a peak torque of 649 Nm (479 lb-ft), has been gifted with new exhaust manifolds and sport catalysts, with a remaped ECU managing everything. The powerplant now allows the driver to play with 623 hp.

In addition to that, the SLS has been gifted with a set of custom ... [...]
