It was probably the cocaine that turned the performance oriented tuning scene of the seventies into something very different a decade later. Or David Hasselhoff's hairy chest. Either way, what came after the Oil Crisis is something that would even shock even the infamous tuners of today. Like Justin Bieber . Gullwing, Gold and Gadgets from Germany. But fear not, other nations like Great Britain were not far behind. Even the Swiss had a go at being the most extravagant. They still do sometimes . What's your favorite terrible '80s Euro Tuner car?
