

Aston Martin DB9 by RSC Tuning

08/01/2011 02:28 by admin

The Aston Martin DB9 has already received a major update for the 2011 model year, but one lucky tuner in Miami, FL got the chance to make the supercar even better with a tuning package of their own. RSC Tuning have already started working on the exterior modifications for their super project, with engine mods to follow in the near future. Changing it up a little for the Aston Martin DB9 is new RSC clear rear tail lights, a new RSC sports exhaust, RSC performance air filters, COR wheels, RSC lowering springs, RSC custom floor mats, and Vantage Collection rear diffuser. Future updates will make the kit much better as RSC Tuning is planning on performing an ECU update and using RSC 100 Cell secondary sports catalysts.[...]

Source: topspeed Tuning