About a month ago, we showed you a finely crafted, tuned-up Porsche Cayenne Turbo Coupe courtesy of Merdad. Turns out, the aftermarket company isn't done with their tool kits just yet. Another modified Porsche Cayenne Turbo has come out of the UK-based tuning shop. This time, it's a four-door version that has been given its own full-blown Merdad exterior body upgrade. For this particular version, the aerodynamic upgrades include an electronic lowering model that drops the car's height by 40mm, a set of Merdad Racing 22" forged rims that come in either black or silver editions, and a Merdad "Super Sound" exhaust system at the exterior. For the interior, Merdad outfitted the Cayenne Turbo with a unique leather interior trim, specially-designed alloy racing pedals, entrance blends, a floor mat set, and steering wheel[...]
