Turner Motorsports knows a thing or two about building race cars so it shouldn't come as a surprise to any of us that they were able to turn a BMW M3 into a yellow-and-blue racer all in a span of two minutes. Wait?two minutes? That doesn't sound right, does it? Not unless you take into account the magic that is time-lapse video. This video, which was taken a few weeks leading up to the Rolex 24 earlier this month, shows the engineers and crew of Turner Motorsports masterfully turn this M3 E92 into a race-ready machine, complete with all the standard regulation parts as well as the colorful yellow and blue livery.[...]
