If you have a Land Rover or Range Rover and you're in the market for a tuning company that offers some of the best body kits for these SUVs, you won't find one that can do it better than Project Khan. Known everywhere as a tuner that specializes on the British SUV brand, Project Khan has continuously rolled out refreshed models of Land Rovers and Range Rovers for quite some time now. And the best part about it is that these guys aren't slowing down anytime soon. While there doesn't appear to be any overwhelming differences from all their previous works, Project Khan's refreshed body kit for the Range Rover Vogue 4.4 Diesel RS450 does have its own set of aesthetic goodies. For starters, the exterior comes with a new front bumper that comes with "3D mesh inserts", fog lamps, and LED lights. There's also a fresh front grille, RS side skirts, a revised rear bumper with a diffuser, a modified stainless steel exhaust system with four exhaust tips, and a set of 22" Kahn RSX alloys round out the exterior package of the RS450.[...]
