

Brabus Smart Ultimate

22/02/2011 21:56 by admin

After previewing two of their Geneva-bound works ? the Brabus Rocket and the Brabus SLS ? the German tuning company has released the first official photo of their third and final Geneva offering: the Brabus Smart ForTwo Ultimate. For a company that specializes on upgrading Mercedes and Maybach vehicles, Brabus doesn't always get to work on Smart-branded vehicles. As a matter of fact, the Smart ForTwo Ultimate will only be the second Smart vehicle to be tuned by Brabus, after the Ultimate 101 back in 2006. Details behind the overall package are still being withheld, but unlike the two other vehicles headed for Geneva, Brabus decided to release a photo of the Ultimate Smart ForTwo in all its glory. Looking at the photo, you'll notice that the car comes in the same matte gray body finish as the two other vehicles[...]
