Anderson Germany has done it again. The German tuner has unveiled another remarkable tuning package for the Audi R8 V10. After the Racing Edition unveiled last year, the tuner has now brought forth the Hyper-Black Edition. As its name suggests, the Hyper-Black edition comes in a smooth black exterior, but it also combines that exterior with different orange inserts and an impressive engine boost to the tune of an extra 64 HP. The standard version of the R8 V10 delivers 525 HP, but with the added boost, Anderson Germany was able to get a total output of 589 HP. This was accomplished with a Rennkats exhaust system, a software optimization, and an air filter modification. Alongside the engine mods is a carbon fiber package that helps to reduce the car's total weight. So far, nothing has been said about the car's performances, but we can only imagine what this car is now capable of doing.[...]
