

VÄTH Turns up the Wick on the Mercedes-Benz CL500 Coupe

31/03/2011 01:48 by admin

The Mercedes-Benz CL500 [C216] coupe is the latest car to drop into the hands of German tuning firm VÄTH. The company starts by squeezing more power out of the 5.5-liter V8 engine through the use of sport camshafts, custom stainless steel sport catalysts and air filters. Output is lifted from 388HP to 460HP and 600Nm, while VÄTH also removes the[...]

Source: Carscoop Tuning