

German Do-It-Yourselfer Builds Himself a Chevrolet Camaro Transformers 3 Bumblebee

07/04/2011 03:21 by admin

Whether you watch the string of Transformers movies for the sultry Megan Fox, the action-packed scenes, or the nostalgia of it all, there shouldn't be one person out there that can say anything bad about Bumblebee, the beautiful yellow Camaro nipping at the heels of Sam Witwicky (played by Shia Labeouf). One man took his love for the muscle car so far that he transformed his Chevrolet Camaro into a Bumblebee Badass, all by himself. Okay, so it may not scream professional tuner, but this fan took his build very seriously with a matte yellow paint job combined with a matte black hood, rear wing, strips, and a new set of wheels. He even built some of the parts with his own two hands, including the new hood with added air vents, front bumper, and front splitter. New side skirts and a rear diffuser were also added to convert the overall look into that of the famed Camaro.[...]

Source: topspeed Tuning