

Lumma Design (Over)does the E64 BMW 6-Series Convertible

11/05/2011 18:27 by admin

Even though the new F12 BMW 6-series Convertible has already landed on the market, Lumma Design has set its eyes on the previous generation of the Bavarian firm's flagship cabriolet with the release of a new cosmetics only package. Known for its brazen styling choices when it comes to dressing up cars, the German tuning house's latest proposal is no exception to the rule. On the outside, the team over at Lumma Design developed an a full aerodynamic kit that includes M-style front bumper, more prominent side skirts and a new rear bumper with side openings and a diffuser that houses quad tail pipes.[...]

Source: Carscoop