

Mercedes SLS AMG by MAE Design

19/05/2011 16:44 by admin

We've never heard of MAE Design, but apparently they just got some new management in the form of Yuksel Akkus, the official license holder for the company in Germany. Now that all that has been taken care of, the company has moved into the working portion of business with a new tuning package for the Mercedes SLS AMG. Not much was done to the sports car, but who can resist more images of the SLS AMG?

The most obvious modifications to the sports car are the appropriately named Crownia wheels. They measure 9.5 and 11.5x22 inches and are wrapped in 315/25 rear tires and 265/30 front tires. These new wheels are a work in progress and more sizes and bolt circles will become available in the next few years.[...]

Source: topspeed