

2012 Nissan GT-R to Get an Extra 30 hp and Spec R Version

07/06/2011 10:23 by admin

We shall start this piece of news in a depressive manner: it seems that the R35 Nissan GT-R is approaching the moment when it will be put to sleep, with the 2012 JDM model expected to be the last one.

However, we only begun in a sad way - it seems that Nissan wants the car to go just the way it's been living - in full glory. According to 7tune.com, the aforementioned model will gain an extra 30 hp, which means that it's smart four-wheel-drive system will send 560 hp to the road.

Actually, the [...]

Source: autoevolution