It's June and Sport Wheels seems to be telling us something like a new season is here so it's time for... a not so new car! The German aftermarket developer has recently released a modification kit for the Audi A4 Cabrio, a vehicle that has been off the market since 2008.

The tuner played with the car's 2.0-liter TFSI unit (this engine is borrowed from the VW Golf GTI MK V), which delivers 200 hp and 280 Nm of torque when it leaves the factory. The unit has received a new exhaust system that [...]
