Looks can be deceiving, can't they? What looks like a seemingly ordinary Audi A5 is anything but normal when you look at what's sticking out of its rear end. Dressed in a polished white garb, this particular A5 has been stripped bare of just about everything except for the body panels. What it now has, though, is a 1,000-horsepower turbocharged drag engine complete with a parachute on its behind and a full roll cage for safety.[...]
