The famous third party tuning company based in Aachen, Germany, AC Schnitzer, have recently revealed and tested their latest project, the MINI Eagle, which they claim it is the fastest MINI John Cooper Works (JCW) ever built. The German tuners have tweaked both the performance and visual aspects of the car, and then they took it around the Hockenheim Circuit.

Visually, the car boasts anti-roll bars, a carbon fiber body kit, which includes a carbon bonnet plus carbon wings and doors plus [...]
