If there is anybody who could turn up a really hot aftermarket program for Audi's diminutive A1, its the world's largest specialist when it comes to tuning VW Group cars - ABT. Not only has the company managed to boost the 1.4-liter TFSI engine's power to the same level we'd expect to see from the upcoming S1, but it's offering a whole range of cosmetic components that are easy to install.

Even the series standard version of the car is a lot of fun in particular on winding roads[...]
