

Ferrari FF Maximus by DMC

21/06/2011 21:31 by admin

Generally speaking, Ferraris are some of the few models in the world that shouldn't be touched by tuners. However, when it comes to the FF our opinion varies a bit due to the fact that it's by far one of the most... hmm, let's say "not well done" Ferraris ever. Basically, it's just plain ugly so we were ecstatic to see that German tuner, DMC, had already started working on revising the model. There's not much they could do for the overall look of the sports coupe, but the added power sure makes it a bit more enticing.

Source: topspeed