

Video: Mom wants no part of 1,200-horsepower Lamborghini Gallardo

14/08/2011 20:10 by admin

If you have a Lamborghini Gallardo, let alone one that's been tuned to produce 1,250 wheel horsepower by Underground Racing, it's pretty understandable if you have a passenger that will be on the edge of his or her seat for the duration of the ride. Take for example the mother of Robert, the man behind the wheel of this break-neck Gallardo. While she wasn't as hysterical as past mommies have been when their sons take them for the ride of their lives, there's still plenty of "Oh my Gods!" to chuckle about. Nevermind that this mom looks every bit of a stunner for someone whose kid owns a Gallardo, but that's besides the point. The whole point is that videos like this never seem to get old to us. For all the shrieking and cursing that goes on inside the car speeding well past the speed limit, there's that sense of delight and satisfaction that comes with seeing moms riding shotgun on a high-powered supercar while praying to the Lord Almighty for their son to slow "the hell down".[...]

Source: topspeed