

New Porsche 911 Becomes SpeedART SP91-R

05/09/2011 14:57 by admin

The 991 generation of the Porsche 911 hasn't even shown its metal to the public so far, yet the tuners are already racing to offer modification packages for the vehicle.

Today, SpeedART has offered us a preview of its SP91-R project, which uses the new 911 Carrera S as a base, with the tuning planning to have the car ready in time for this year's Essen Motor Show.

The aftermarket developer want to offer us a complete transformation, targeting both the visual and the technical sides of the ... [...]

Source: autoevolution