The McLaren MP4-12C is a car that has been developed with a lot of attention. However, the vehicle didn't quite manage to overtake its main rival the Ferrari 458, so the Brits went back to their labs, paid attention to what the automotive media had to say, then made some calculations and finally tweaked the car in order to give it more soul.

However, it seems that none of this is enough for Russian tuner Merdad, which has taken on the challenge to offer a complex modification package for the ... [...]
