

Chrysler 300 FatChance 2.0 Evolves for 2011 SEMA Show [Video]

07/09/2011 11:11 by admin

This latest video comes not from the tuning world but from the guys that built the new 300 sedan themselves - Chrysler. The automaker asks us to give a second look to one very interesting project we've already seen this spring.

As some of you might already know FatChance 2.0 is the first ever customized Chrysler 300 and its name is derived from a similar project on the old generation of executive bruiser. We've already seen it at this year's Annual Spring Festival of LXs in California, but [...]

Source: autoevolution