The jury is still out on whether the Porsche Panamera can be called a beautiful car, but there's still hope for it in the tuning world, where you can always add a bit of carbon fiber seasoning to make any car taste better.

This particular project is the work of Dusseldorf tuning company, Anderson Germany, has created a package for the Porsche Panamera Turbo. The Panamera is now called the Anderson Germany Red Race Edition and its obvious why.

The front end now sports a more aggressive, and...[...]
