Here's one that Panamera fans have all been waiting for: Hamann's Paragon... of tuning prowess and huge exhaust. The model will have it's official debut tomorrow, September 13th, at the 2011 IAA in Frankfurt, where every fan of the German brand will see what you can do with a big wing a car that's supposed to be subtle.

The most obvious thing about this project is that basically no panel has been left untouched on the Paragon. The arches have bulges, the fenders have flares and the sills are.... [...]
