Depending on where your allegiances lie, the Underground Racing-tuned Lamborghini Gallardo TT can be described as the Suzuki Hayabusa of the auto tuning world and vice versa. But if you're looking for something obscenely fast, can you really go wrong picking one over the other? The short and simple answer is no. So to illustrate just how incredibly powerful these two machines are, the folks from Underground Racing and the people behind the tuned Hayabusa - Shamrock Racing - met up to see of these beasts has bigger claws. The video appears to be a teaser of a more elaborate production between the two tuning firms. But seeing as we're getting a pretty good glimpse at what lies ahead, its pretty safe to say that we're going to have high expectations as to how this race turns out.[...]
