

RevoZport BMW 1 Series Coupe Carbon Roof

10/10/2011 16:16 by admin

The BMW 1 Series Coupe has just released a new aftermarket present, in the form of a carbon fiber roof panel. Developed by Chai Wan tuning company Revozport, the panel brings both technical and visual benefits.

The roof panel not only reduces the vehicle's overall mass, but also lowers its center of gravity. In case you're wondering it tips the scale at 3 kg, while the factory metallic panel weighs 16 kg.

As for the visual part of the equation, the tuning company allows customers to [...]

Source: autoevolution