Vorsteiner has developed a new set of rims based on its V-104 Momoblock, with the result, named VS-340 Concave, being a three-piece goodie designed specifically for Aston Martin.

The tuning company optimized the design for Aston in order to maximize wheel concavity, offering a special visual impression.

The offsets and fittment have been tweaked for an Aston Martin with a set of H&R lowering springs, taking into account camber adjustments and a ground clearance that doesn't affect drivabil...[...]
