

Senner Announces Audi A1 S-Line Exhaust and Rear Apron

17/10/2011 20:11 by admin

German tuning house Senner knows a thing or two about Audis in general and the little A1 in particular, as they took the 122 HP 1.4 TFSI all the way up to 165 horsepower.

For their metallic brown city car, they also chose a set of big wheels and revealed a number of cosmetic changes. As part of the same package, Senner has now offering the standalone new rear apron made out of glass-fiber-reinforced polymeric material FGPC and new double 90-mm tailpipes placed on either side of the car.[...]

Source: autoevolution