The boys over at ADV.1 Wheels have been busy bees this month, haven't they? A few weeks ago, they set-up a Ferrari Enzo with a shiny new set of ADV5.2SL wheels wrapped in Pirelli tires. Needless to say, the combination of those alloys with the allure of an Enzo makes for a mouth-watering package. Now, they're back with another new project, only this time, it's for the Porsche 997 GT3 RS. It's not the Ferrari Enzo, but Lord have mercy, it's stunning nonetheless. In addition to the awesome two-tone silver and black finish, ADV.1 Wheels added a new set of their 20" ADV7.1 rims - 20x8.5 at the front and 20x12 at the back - wrapped in a set of Pirelli tires. On top of that, the 997 GT3 RS also got a cool Brushed Gunmetal color trim, further adding a sizzle of sexy to an already sultry German sports car.[...]
