

Ford Explorer Tijn Edition

21/10/2011 03:45 by admin

Just like skirts getting blown up by the wind, teaser images like these just leaves a whole lot to the imagination. Can't you guys raise the covers up a little bit more? In any case, what you see is the second Ford model that Tjin Edition is set to bring at the 2011 SEMA Show in Las Vegas in two weeks time. We already showed you the Ford Mustang, so this time around, you can get your speculations on as to what the aftermarket company did to the Ford Explorer. The image doesn't shed a whole lot apart from that custom 24" iForged Concave wheel that appears to be part of Tjin Edition's package for the Explorer. In any case, the company did reveal a slew of other options added on to the Ford Explorer, including a custom Dupont paint finish, a lowered Einbach suspension set-up, large Baer brakes, a Thule bike rack, a black leather interior by LR Auto Body, and a pair of Recaro child seats, among other things.[...]

Source: topspeed