

Fast Fords at SEMA: Seven Focus and Three Fiesta Models

21/10/2011 18:53 by admin

Ford has a number of house-approved car they want to show to the public at the upcoming SEMA Show in Las Vegas, where we think a new vision of the aftermarket world will be seen.

Why do we say that? Because the focus isn't on some sort of tuned 2010 Mustang, but on the new Focus and its ST hothatch version, which represents the Blue Oval's fresh global product offensive. In total, there will be seven different versions of the Focus coming from such companies as 3dCarbon, ROUSH Performance Pro...[...]
