

Range Rover Pickup Based on Honda Ridgeline Is Pure Overkill

27/10/2011 19:51 by admin

We understand the desire to see a Jeep pickup, but we're not quite sure that a Range Rover one would be such a good idea. However, it seems that the creators of the vehicle you can see in the adjacent image (scooped by GT Spirit) think they know best.

We don't even know where to start explaining, such is the extent of wrongness of this tuning project. We are dealing with a Honda Ridgeline that has received A LOT of custom work, with the most prominent feature being a front fascia that is try... [...]

Source: autoevolution