The Ford Mustang is arguably one of the most customized cars on the market today and you can expect the muscle car to come to the 2011 SEMA Auto Show in many forms. One of the more unique Mustangs to be displayed in SEMA is the 4T-GT "Mango Tango" by Kenny Brown. The core ingredient of the Brown's customized Mustang is the GT-4 Chassis and Suspension Package, considered by most as one of the best tuning programs on the market today. In addition to that, Brown will also be outfitting his Mustang with a bi-turbo system that is expected to drive up the muscle car's output past its standard configuration. Other notable additions to the Mustang 4T-GT include a fresh "Mango Orange" paint set-up, a sport rally bar for added support, Sparco racing seats and harnesses, a 6-piston Baer brake system, and a new set of Weld Racing lightweight RTS wheels wrapped in Michelin Pilot Sport tires.[...]
