

Lamborghini Gallardo Koi Camouflage by Cam Shaft

01/11/2011 21:55 by admin

You know when you look out your window and you see a Lamborghini Gallardo sitting ever so splendidly in your garage? Then out of sheer genius or lunacy, you decide that it's not spectacular enough, so you go out and get it wrapped with Cam Shaft's new 'Koi Camouflage' Premium Wrapping. The end result is this cow-looking Italian supercar that certainly deserves more than getting dressed up in a permanent Halloween costume. Make no mistake, Cam Shaft's good at what they do; proof of that lies in one of their recent works, the Ferrari 458 Italia.. That being said, for all the things that they've done well, what they did with this Lamborghini Gallardo - it's actually owned by Gemballa big boss Steffen Korbach, who ran it at last year's Gumball 3000 - certainly falls by the way of acquired tastes.[...]

Source: topspeed