

Ford Raptor by JPM Coachworks

03/11/2011 15:15 by admin

The 2011 SEMA Auto Show is all about seeing some creative and well-built one-off machines and this Ford Raptor SVT SuperCrew fits right in that mold. Built as a collaboration project by JPM Coachworks, Addictive Desert Design, High Desert Mobile, and Hennessey Performance, this Ford Raptor was turned into quite a menacing beast, and that's high praise considering that it was already a powerful machine in its own right. For the exterior design, Addictive Desert Designs gave the Raptor an extensive body package comprising of Stealth front and rear bumpers to go with Rigid LED lighting. The exterior also comes with a new set of Fuel Hostage wheels wrapped around Goodyear MTR Kevlar rubber tires, as well as a new custom dual-exhaust system courtesy of Spintech Muffler. As for the interior, that was taken care of by JPM Coachworks, who dressed it up in Alcantara and a Royal Hides from Edelman leather treatment, while High Desert Mobile provided the truck with a high-tech audio system.[...]

Source: topspeed