There's no doubt that the SEMA Auto Show is all about displaying extreme update packages for models currently on the market and a tuning firm like Underground Racing will never disappoint. Their latest project is based on the 2011 Lamborghini Gallardo LP570-4 Superleggera and, just like any other Underground Racing package, includes some pretty impressive updates. The tuner's package is called the Underground Racing TT Lamborghini Superleggera LP 1000-4 and as you might have guessed, includes an impressive twin-turbo conversion that will increase the V10's total output from the standard 570 HP to a total of 1000 HP! The back of the car reveals a new custom fabricated stainless steel exhaust that will let the engine's new and throaty sound flow out like beautiful music. Next to the extra 430 HP and the new exhaust, the Superleggera LP 1000-4 also received a new set of wheels from HRE.[...]
