a-workx is a Bavarian-based tuning company that wants to see what happens when its decades of experience in motorsport series like the FIA GT Championship, Porsche Carrera Cup and ADAC GT Masters are used for road cars. In fact, the aftermarket developer knows the result very well, but just like to pretend it doesn't, so that it has to roll out a new project every time.

This time, a-works is giving us the BMW M3 460cs. The 460cs (Club Sport) is a E92 M3 project that aims to outperform the M3 ...[...]
