

BMW M Coming to 2011 Essen Motor Show

18/11/2011 21:04 by admin

The tuning world is still high from the sensations generated by this year's edition of the SEMA event and it seems that it will stay that way for quite a while, as the 2011 Essen Motor Show is approaching fast.

The aftermarket event, which is scheduled to take place in Germany, between November 26 and December 4, will see multiple automakers flex their in-house tuning muscles. We're here now to tell you that BMW will take part in the event for the first time.

The company won't just bring i... [...]

Source: autoevolution