Our calendar has been so full of auto shows that it's becoming increasingly difficult to keep track of all the vehicles that are scheduled to be unveiled in the coming weeks. Not that we're complaining because this is what we live for. Over at the Essen Motor Show, some of the best auto tuners in the world will be on hand to present their latest creations, including Porsche tuner extraordinaire, TechArt. The German tuning firm will be on hand to show three of their latest projects, including the new Porsche 911 Turbo GT Street R. The full details behind this project have yet to be revealed, although we've been informed that it's going to come with a doozy of upgrades, including Techart's new TA 097/T3 power kit that improves the output of the 911 Turbo's 3.8 liter six-cylinder bi-turbo engine from the standard 500 horsepower and 516 lb/ft of torque figures all the way up to a massive 700 horsepower and 650 lb/ft of torque.[...]
