

Nissan GT-R Gets Banana Yellow Wrap

24/11/2011 20:16 by admin

Nissan has recently released the 2013 GT-R, with the beast packing even more tech goodies than before, offering a 2.84s 0 to 62 mph sprint and... wait a minute? What if you're the owner of a, let's say, 2011 Godzilla, what can you do to still get attention, if this is what you want?

Well, you could peel a giant banana and re-skin your GT-R, like the owner of the vehicle in the adjacent photo (for which we must thank luxury4play) did. It seems that the yellow application job was well taken car... [...]

Source: autoevolution