The good news for those wanting to burn some cash on a hot set of wheels is that Subaru has unwrapped a new special edition version of its Impreza STi sports sedan called the S206. The bad news isn't that only 300 will be built, but that all cars will be only available in Japan. Billed by Subaru as the "crown of STi tuned cars", the new Impreza WRX STi S206 follows on from previous ?S? versions, such as the S203, S204 and S205. So what's special about the new STi model? Well, for starters, the S206 employs exclusive Bilstein dampers, STi coil springs, a flexible front tower bar and draw stiffener, which promise to further improve the car?s precise and quick cornering response.[...]
