What can be more eccentric than presenting a complex tuning package for a topless vehicle in the full blow of the cold season? German tuner Brabus has released the second model teased yesterday, the SLS AMG Roadster package.

The 6.2-liter V8 engine received a new sports exhaust system that uses quad pipe with a diameter of 84 mm, as well as a new ECU map that allows it to offer 611 hp instead of its stock 571 hp.

We also get a Brabus Ride Control system that can lower the car whenever the ... [...]
