The BMW X6 has received a new wide-body kit from its home country tuning company G-Power. The project, which uses the M Typhoon name, also brings the tech side of the G-Power X6 M Typhoon S.

The body kit includes a new front fascia, more muscular wheel arches, side skirts that use LED lights, a new rear bumper that includes a diffuser, and an army of spoilers (which... spoil the entire package if you ask us): a roof one, followed by one on the rear hatch and a wing. The body kit, which enhanc... [...]
