Here at autoevolution, we just love a good tuning job on an Alfa Romeo V6 engine, like those for the 147 GTO in the good old days. Now there's a new one that has a distinct for this customer only flavor to it, since it targets the 159-based Brera coupe, one of the best looking cars on the road... five years ago.

The V6 version of the car, sporting that 3.2-liter chromed lung that looks like an old Ferrari engine, was tuned by Romeo Ferraris in partnership with British Alfa Romeo tuning firm A... [...]
