The BMW M3 is praised for being a speed machine that is, most of all, drivable and the adjacent clip comes to demonstrate that. The video, which is brought by EndrasBMW, gives us an M3 with tuning bits from AC Schnitzer that is being drifted in a roundabout in Albania.

The driver powerslides the car in the roundabout, playing though vehicles that drive normally. While this is obviously dangerous and could lead to a crash, it does show that the M3 is easy to drive at the limit.
