Japanese tuning is usually all about adding big wings and huge skirts that kiss the ground. Thankfully, from the same country that makes anime foil wraps comes a project that just oozes menace and looks.

Takatsuki-based tuning firm Wald Internal has come up with yet more seriousness in the form of a cosmetic kit for the Infiniti G37 Sedan, also know as the Nissan Skyline in Japan. The kit is called the Sports Line Black Bison Edition and from a distance, you'd almost say this is an AMG Merced... [...]
